More than 50 young Jewish folks were present at a meeting held at the South Bend conservatory Sunday for the purpose of definitely organizing a Jewish society whose aim it will be to promote and study the culture and ideals of the Jewish people. The organization is very similar to the Menorah movement that is being endorsed by nearly all of the state universities and will be known as the Jewish society. Social affairs will be given by the society and speakers from out of the city will be brought here occasionally to lecture before the members. Following the adoption of the constitution, the election of officers took place as follows: Philip Welsch, president; Miss Fera Hetschewitz, vice president; Miss Jesse Levy, recording secretary; Miss Esther Abrams, financial secretary; and Samuel Levy, treasurer. Members of the executive committee are: Z. Beckebaum, S. C. Cohen and Mandel Altfield. The next meeting will be held at the conservatory on May 7.

Paramount in the history of social activities of the university of Notre Dame stands the Easter dinner-dance given by the Day Students' association last evening in the Oliver hotel. The affair was beyond a doubt the most successful ever given by a university organization. The affair was very exclusive, being limited to 40 couples.

The dinner was served at 6 o'clock in the tapetory room at daintily arranged tables, at which four couples were seated. At an especially arranged table in the middle of the floor sat the members of the faculty, with the members of the committee gathered around in the form of a small circle. Owing to the sudden illness of Very Rev. Dr. Cavanaugh, he was unable to attend.

Dancing began at 8 o'clock after the tables had been removed. The program of 18 dances was played by Mendick's seven-piece orchestra. The grand march into the ballroom was led by the president of the association, Edward N. Marcus, and Miss Rada Roth.

The committee in charge of the first formal affair was: Russell Hugh Downey, Wilmer Otis Finch, Frank Bald, Welsh, Thomas Wilson Conway and Walter Clements. The patrons and patronesses were: Prof. and Mrs. W. L. Benitz, Hon. and Mrs. F. J. Vorpahl and Mrs. Mary Marcus. The officers of the association: President, Edward N. Marcus; vice president, Russell H. Downey; secretary, Vernon R. Helmer; treasurer, Leo S. Berner; athletic managers, Thomas Conway and Wilmer Finch. The programs were original and out of the ordinary. The design on the cover was made by Mrs. Fay Marvin Henthorne of the Rushion.

The out-of-town guests were: The Misses Rada R. Roth of Fowler, Ind.; Alice M. Roth of Plymouth; Mae Henderson, Marie Sage and Nerise Casey of Detroit; Florence Erwin of Rochester, N. Y.; Emma Adams of Dayton, Ind.; Margaret McIlwaine of Denver, Colo.; Mary Graham of Ottawa, Ill., and F. B. Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa.

She was assisted by Miss Dora Keller, whose subjects, "Dona Isabel," "Blind Man's Bluff" and "Family of Luke of Oseba" were especially well presented. Mrs. Hanson was unanimously elected chairman of the department following the resignation of Mrs. George Cutter, who was voted in at the previous meeting. Tea Table Talks

By May De Witt Talmage

JUST LETTING OFF STEAM.

"What a comfort it is to 'let off steam' now and then when your mental boiler seems ready to burst," she said, as she heaved a deep sigh. "The problems of life is getting to be such a hackneyed phrase that it almost makes one tired just to read it, let alone to wade through all anyone has to say on their own particular problem. This is one of the days when I must have my say or burst."

"Do you ever think what a lot of precious time is lost in life just because the other person does not do his duty completely, or on time? Oh, I realize I am not perfect and that I, too, at times, add my burden to someone else's. Nevertheless that does not change the fact that if we would all carry our own responsibilities and work, which we so often only do by half, we would lighten the burdens of the world."

"Take a mother's life, for instance. She wakes with a start wondering if the maid will have breakfast on time so that the child will not be late for school. She puts all her energy into that child in order to get it started in time. Poor management, you say. Yes, I grant it, but look into most of the homes you know and you will find this state of affairs exists."

"A woman said to me yesterday, 'I don't see how you manage to get your children started in time for school. I have only one girl, and by the time she has found her rubbers and books, her hair ribbon is in place, and I have kissed her good bye, I am a total wreck.'"

"Then comes the tallying of the grocer's and butcher's bill, to see if they sent what you ordered or charged you what you did not order. Arrived. The grocer has his troubles as well. I have no doubt; whether he receives full weight for what he paid for; if the fruit is fresh. Oh, everybody seems to be looking out to see if somebody else is doing his work well and completely, and then filling in deficiencies; waiting for someone who is not on time, planning for someone who is perfectly able to plan for themselves. As they fall in golf, so few are 'following through,' so they never get as far as they ought to, while they are handicapping someone else's game most awfully."
